When I Mean to Marry.

BY JOHN G. SAXE. When I mean to marry? Well-Tis idle to dispute with fate; But if you choose to hear me tell,

Pray, listen while I fix the date-When daughters baste, with eager feet, Can make the puddings which they cat, And mend the stockings which they wear.

When maidens look upon a man As in himself they would marry, And not as army-soldier scan A sutlar or a commissionary.

When gentle ladies who have got The offer of a lover's hand Content to share his "earthly lot."

When young mechanics are allowed To find and wed the farmer's girls Who don't expect to be endowed

With ruble, diamonds and pearls.

When wives, in short, shall freely give
Their hearts and hands to aid their spouses,
And live as they were wont to live
Within their stree' one story houses.

Rejoiced to quit this lonely life, I'll brusk my beaver, coase to scold; And look about me for a wife.
